MRS. EDNA ALCOTT BRYAN

Rarely do you find a teacher who has been so loved and respected by both students and faculty. For twenty-four years she has been an active and vital part of our school. Her sudden death leaves an emptiness only time can soften. However, her personality and high ideals will continue to be, as they have always been, an inspiration to those of us who were privileged to know her.

CROSSING THE BAR

*Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea.*

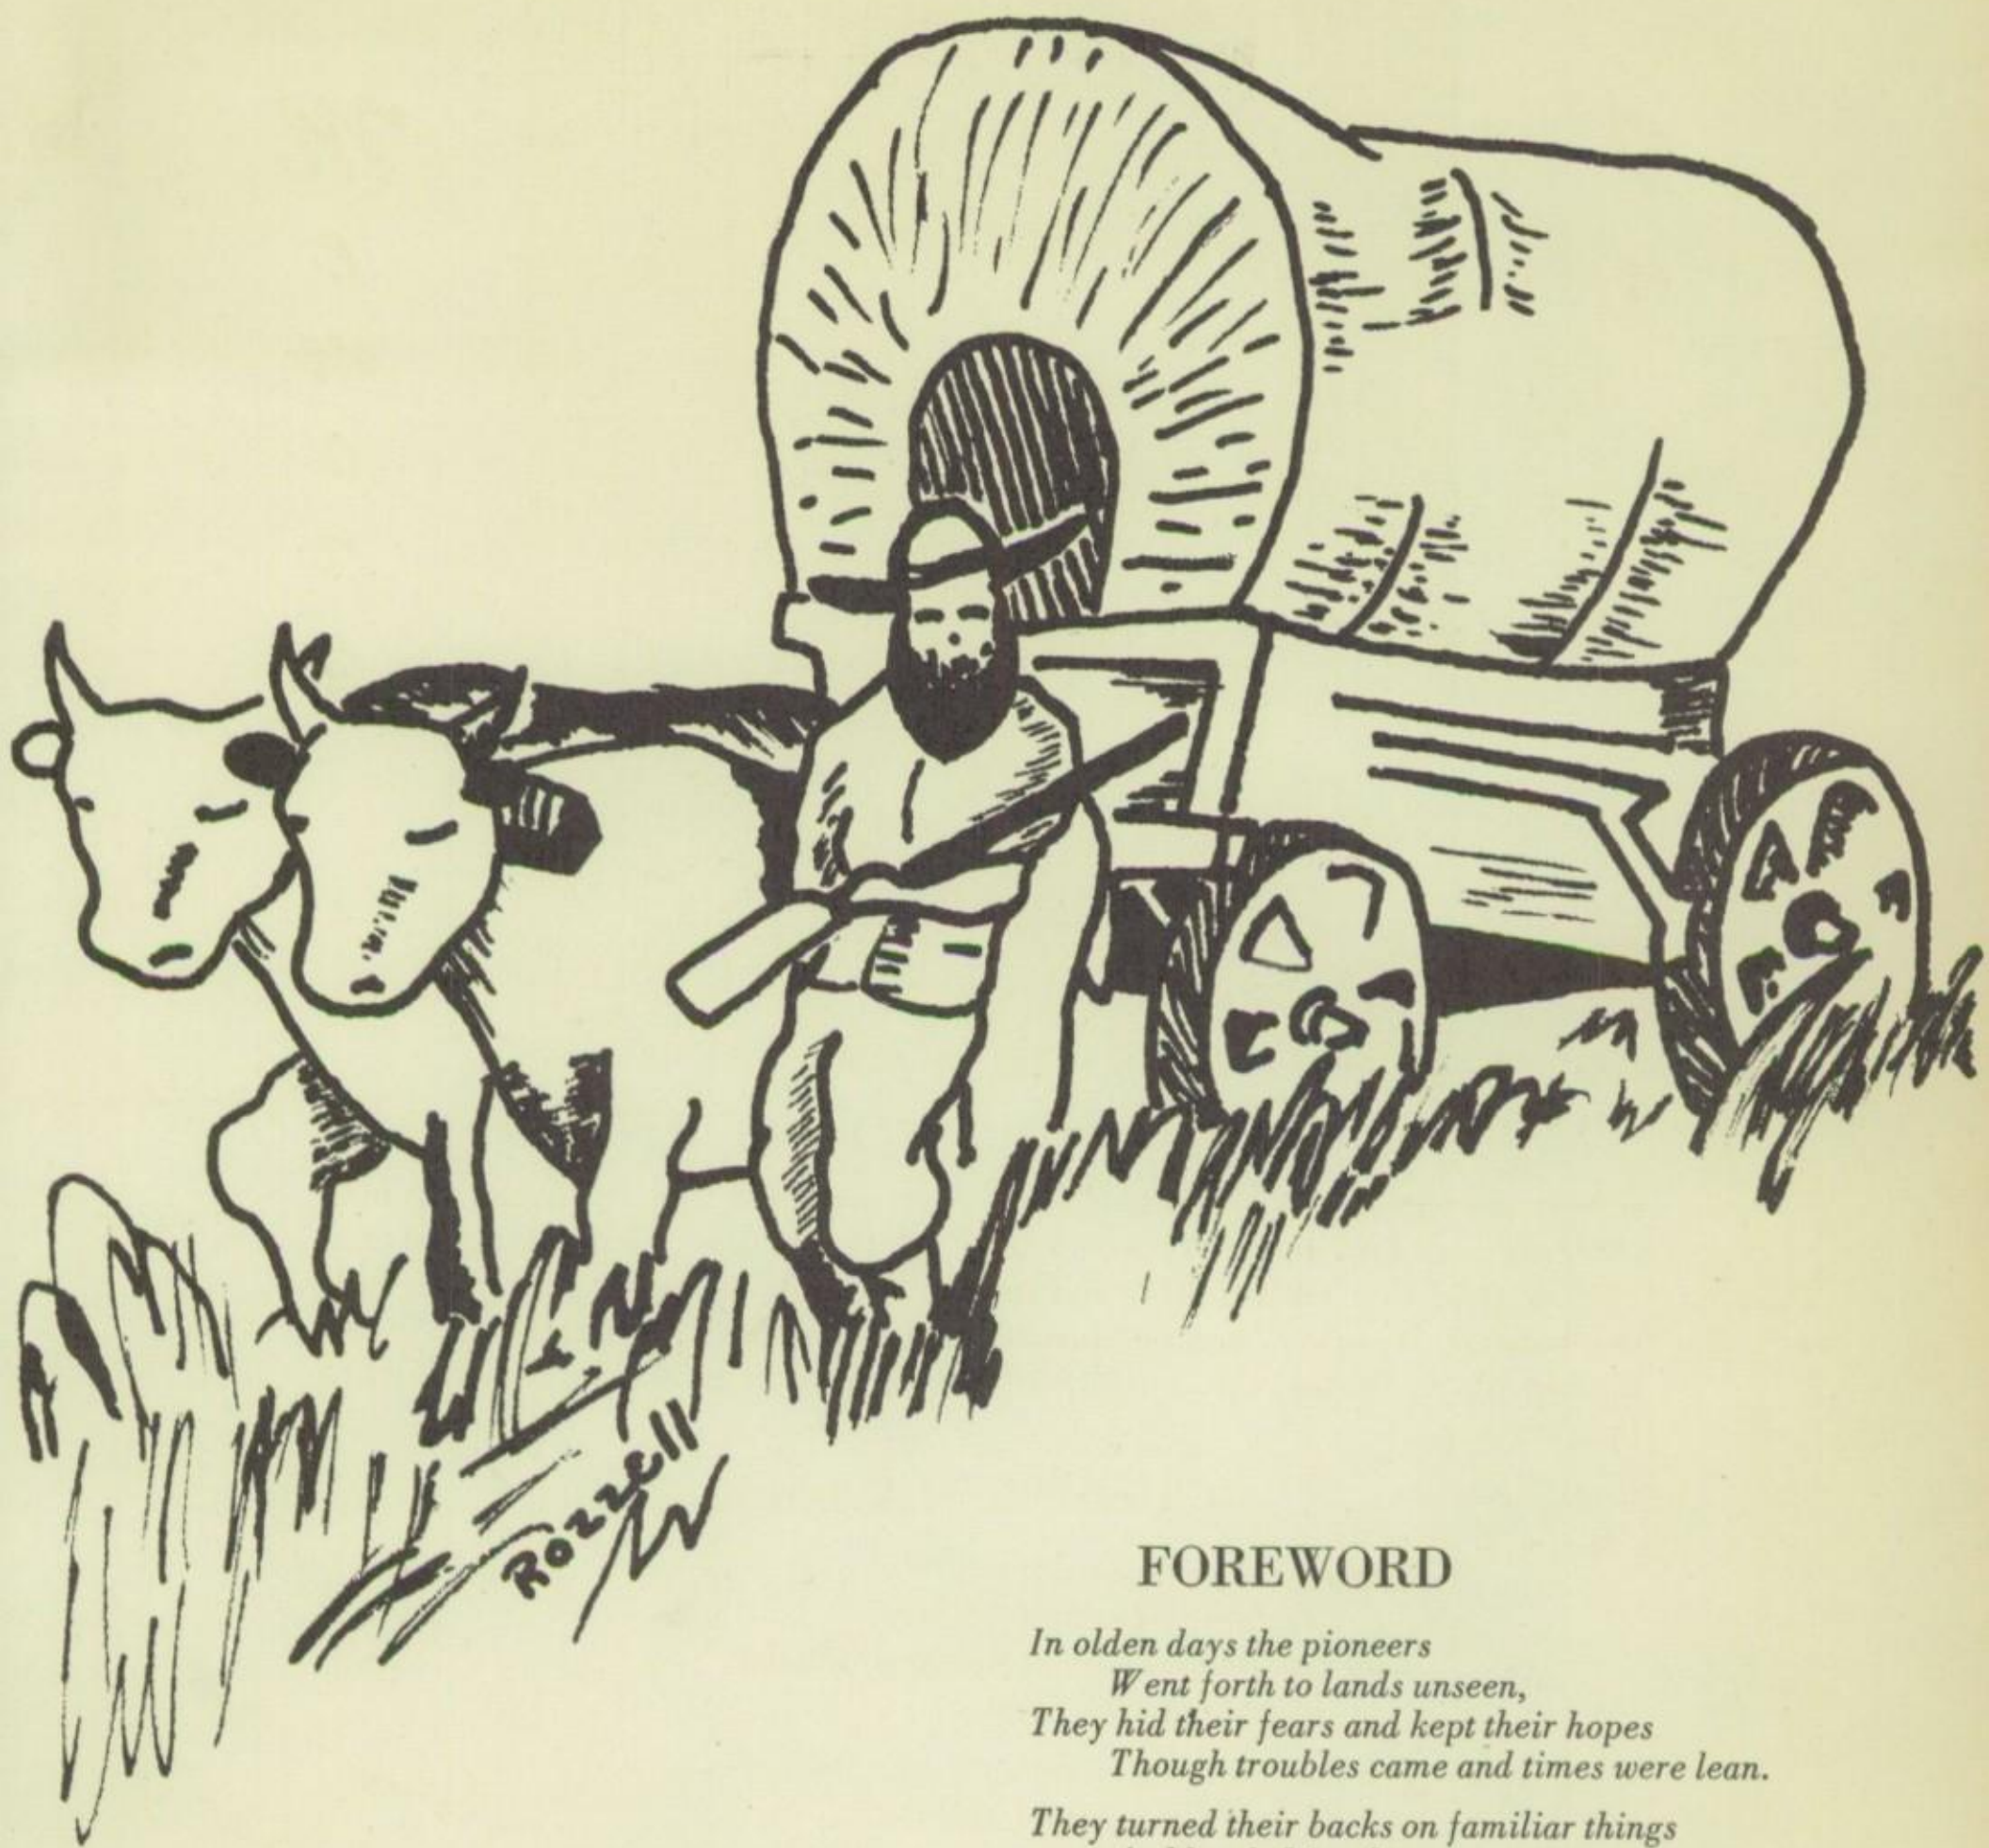

*But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.*

*Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark.*

*For though from out our bourne of Time and Place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar.*

— Alfred Tennyson

Dedicated to Mrs. Bryan by her home room.

FOREWORD

*In olden days the pioneers
Went forth to lands unseen,
They hid their fears and kept their hopes
Though troubles came and times were lean.*

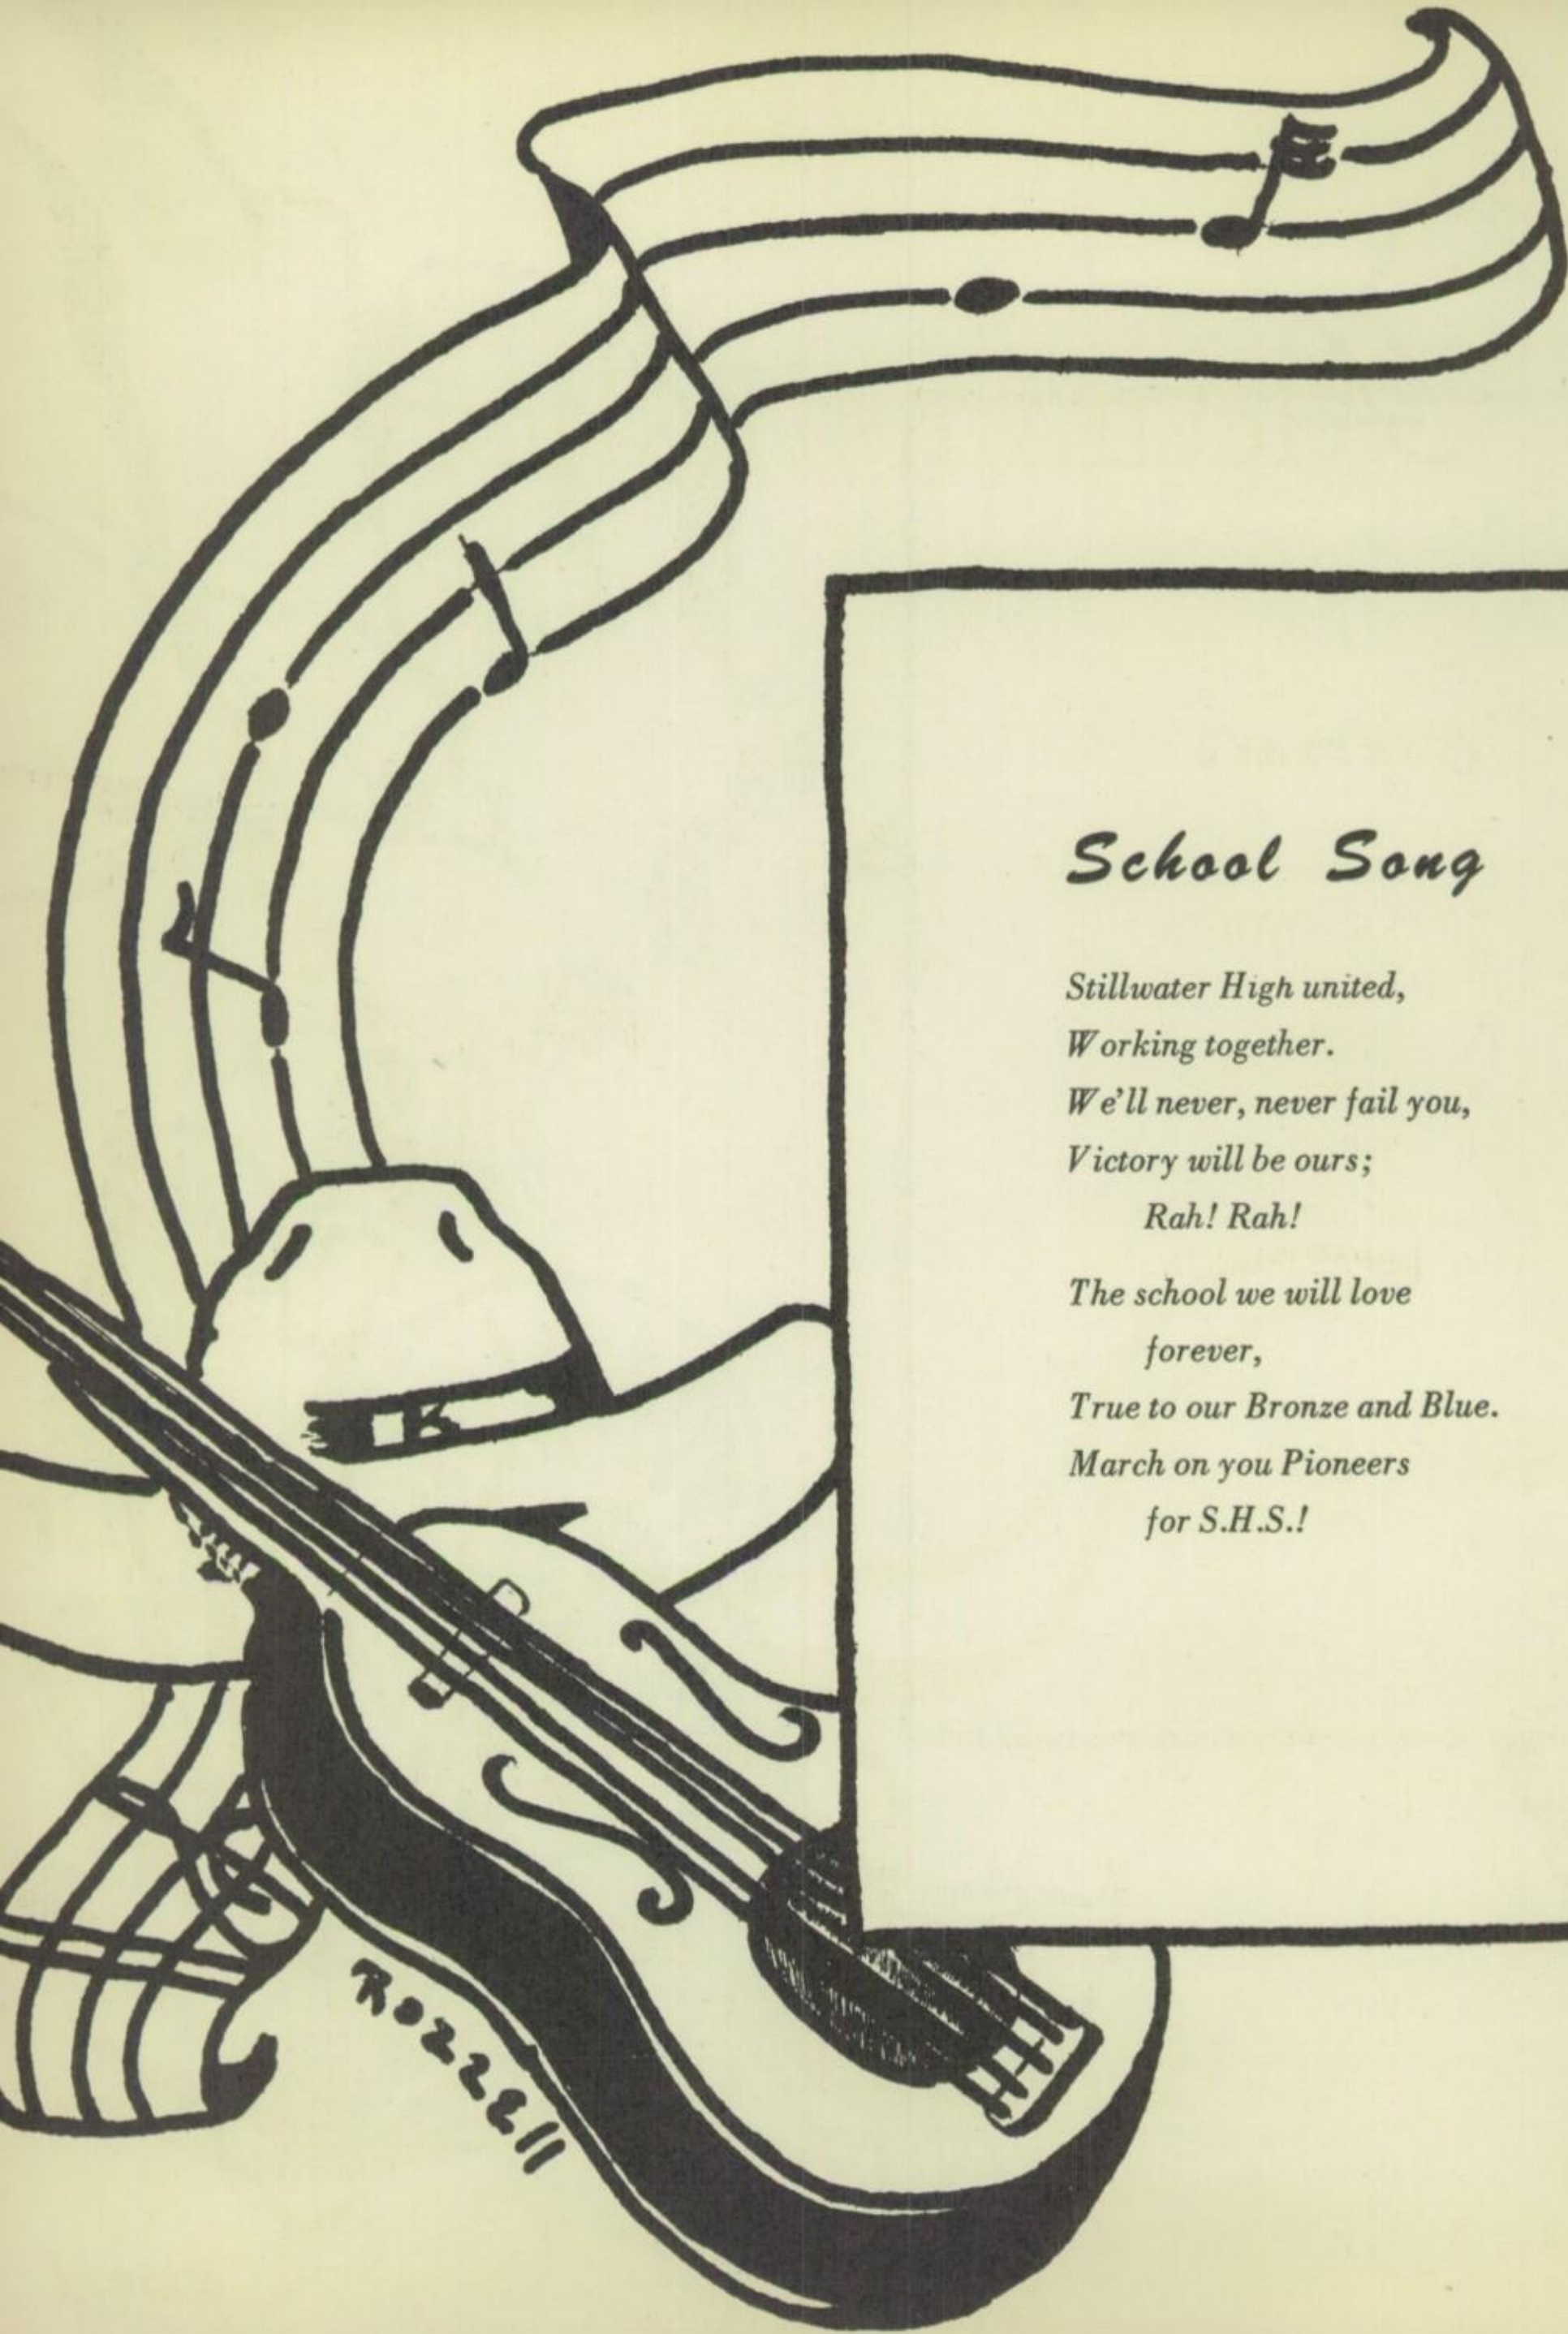

*They turned their backs on familiar things
And headed for the sun.
They fought both man and nature
Till they, at last, the battle won.*

*Today as in the days gone by
The unknown beckons still
And in us, the spirit of the Pioneer
Replies "We can! We Will!"*

THE PLOT

Tom Arsdale, a graduating senior, had a reputation for being girl shy. Babs Sanford sets out to cure him, without his knowledge. She changes places with Birdie, the cleaning lady, and in return gives her a chance for a screen test.

As something beautiful begins to develop, Mr. Arsdale appears with Sylvia, the girl from home. Chuck, the real Birdie's sweetheart, and Mr. Arsdale hatch up a plot to break up the engagement between Tom and Birdie (alias Babs). The annual costume ball gives them their chance but things foul up when the girls innocently switch costumes. Amid the ensuing confusion the real Birdie returns after having made a fizzle at her screen test. But as all good stories go, it all ended happily.

This year the Student Council has sponsored many things, the most important being the State Student Council Convention in Stillwater at the Student Union. A great deal of time and hard work were spent by all the council members making this meeting a success. The Curtis Sales were also carried on this year and will be repeated annually. The money received from the sales was used for school purposes.

The following activities were also completed: concessions at the football and basketball games, series of school parties, and student mixers, and the election of Who's Who.

Membership of this organization consists of a representative and alternate from each homeroom.

State Student Council Convention held in Stillwater.

Speakers for the evening were Dick Earnest, State President, and Dr. C. P. Thompson.

Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves at the banquet and throughout the entire meeting.

The State meeting ran three days beginning on December 6th through December 8th.

Sitting at the head table are: Mr. and Mrs. Russell, Mrs. King, Reggie King, and Mrs. Markwell.

Scenes from the annual spring banquet.

FHA ACTIVITIES

Future Homemakers was founded on the idea that more is achieved through group co-operation than through individual competition. The activities include many projects and recreational activities. The special projects this year were Christmas baskets sent to needy families, coffee and donut sales at the football games, and selling candy after lunch each day. The main activity that we had this year was a series of square dancing lessons with the FFA Boys.
